ſent Miniſtry, written by J——n and publiſhed a few days before the reſignation.

We are aſſured by the Advocates of the Miniſtry that, while Lord Shelburne is Secretary of ſtate, we can have no reaſon to apprehend a Rupture with France or Spain. This propoſition is ſingular enough, and I believe turns upon a refinement very diſtant from common uſe. But, admitting it to be ſuch as I apprehend your Friend to Public Credit, Lord Shelburne's remaining in office is a ſecurity of peace, his being ſuddenly removed an occaſion of war. Now, Sir, his Lordſhip's removal has been for ſome days, and is within theſe few days abſolutely known, the indiſcretion of which, if were a party-writer, would give me as many advantages againſt the miſconduct of the Miniſtry themſelves. As the public, and in that view hold myſelf to triumph over men, whoſe compoſitions are ſo they defend.

I have given you a melancholy but of the ſtate of this country. Every and the ſentiment confirms it. The follows the probability of argument, of the preſent hour is the experience of the ſhow permit me to offer my opinion of the whoſe Adminiſtration we are reduced the public will be enabled to judge moſt likely to relieve us from it. ſhall make no part of this we have a right to be acquainted becauſe we are intereſted in their n ſhall extend into office, it of the times to ſuppoſe that young men muſt ſtudied. They thought to thoſe ſhores of this country were the firſt trial of their abilities. His Grace had his maiden ſword in the field of oppoſition, all the diſcipline of the minority with Wildman's, called at favourites, looked Chatham with aſtoniſhment, and was the declared of Wilkes. It afterwards pleaſed his Grace to in alliance with his friend Lord Rockingham, very little time, it pleaſed his Grace to abandon the meaſure upon terms, which he obtained. For a ſhort time his ſubmiſſion was unlimited. He could not anſwer a without Lord Chatham's permiſſion. I preſume learning his rode, for he ſoon ſet up for he declared himſelf the Miniſter, his chaman but little underſtood. From that moment a directed by paſſion and caprice not only what he is a young man, but a young man without ment. One day he defends, and threatens, The next, he finds his blood heated, and ſwears friends are determined to go on. In his public meaſures he has ſeen no proof either of ability or conſiſtence. If I were a party-writer, (no matter how unwiſely) proceeding Adminiſtration. The colonies had reaſon to complain, and were running to their good-humour. Point was decided, when this young man thought proWithout either plan or neceſſity, he adopts Spirit of Mr. Grenville's meaſures, and renews the of taxation, in a form more odious and leſs effecthat of the Stamp-act, which had been repealed.

The late invaſion of Corſica, it will be matter whether he has carried on a ſecret with the French Court, in terms contradictory Order in Council, and to the inſtructions drawn up his Majeſty's Secretary of ſtate. If it ſhall that he has quitted the line of his department to betray the ſecurity of his country, and if there be a to protect him, in ſuch a caſe, againſt public juſtice, the conſtitution of Great-Britain is at an end.

The part foremoſt in the proſecution of Mr. Wilkes, declarations and connections be conſidered, is baſe and contemptible. The man, whom he now brands with the name of blaſphemy, but a very few years ago was the friend of ——n's friend, nor is his identity altered, except by his misfortunes.——In the laſt inſtance of his Grace's want and conſiſtency, we ſee him after trying and deſerting every party, throw himſelf into the arms of a ſet of men, whoſe political principles he had always pretended to abhor. Theſe men I doubt not will teach him the folly of his conduct better than I can. They graſp at every thing, and will ſoon puſh him from his ſeat. His private hiſtory would but little deſerve our attention, if he had not voluntarily brought it into public notice. I will not call the amuſements of the young man criminal, though I think they become his age better than his ſtation. There is a period, at which the moſt unruly paſſions are gratified or exhauſted, and which leaves the mind clear and undiſturbed in its attention to buſineſs. His Grace's Gallantry would be offended, if we were to ſuppoſe him within many years of being thus qualified for public affairs. As for the reſt, making every allowance for the frailty of human nature, I can make none for a continued breach of public decorum; nor can I believe that man very zealous for the intereſts of his country, who ſets her opinion at defiance. This Nobleman however has one claim to reſpect, ſince it has pleaſed our gracious S——h to make him Prime Miniſter of Great-Britain.

The Ch——r of the Ex——r, Lord N—th, is a moderate man, and pretends to no higher merit than that of a humble aſſiſtant in office. If he eſcapes cenſure, he is too prudent to aim at applauſe. The neceſſity of his affairs had ſeparated him from earlier friendſhips and connections, and if he were of any conſequence, we might lament that an honeſt man ſhould find it neceſſary to diſgrace himſelf in a poſt he is utterly unfit for, but we have other objects to attend to. It depends greatly upon the preſent management of the Finances, whether this country ſhall ſtand or fall. A common clerk in office may conduct the ordinary ſupplies of the year, but to give a ſenſible relief to public credit or to provide funds againſt a rupture abroad, are objects above him. To remove thoſe oppreſſions, which lie heavieſt upon trade, and, by the ſame operation, to improve the revenue, demands a ſuperior capacity, ſupported by the moſt extenſive knowledge. To vulgar minds it may appear unattainable, becauſe vulgar minds make no diſtinction between the highly difficult and the impoſſible.

The Earl of H—ll—t—h ſet out with a determined attachment to the Court-party, let who would be Miniſter. He had one vice leſs than other courtiers, for he never even pretended to be a patriot. The Oxford election gave him an opportunity of ſhewing ſome ſkill in Parliamentary management, while an uniform obſequious ſubmiſſion to his ſuperiors introduced him into lucrative places, and crowned his ambition with a peerage. He is now what they call a King's man; ready, as the cloſet directs, to be any thing or nothing, but always glad to be employed. A new department, created on purpoſe for him, attracted a greater expectation than he has yet been able to ſupport. In this firſt act of power he has betrayed a moſt miſerable want of judgment.

A proviſion for Lord B—t——t was not an object of importance ſufficient to juſtify a riſque of the firſt impreſſion, which a new Miniſter muſt give of himſelf to the public. For my own part, I hold him in ſome meaſure excuſed, becauſe I am perſuaded the defence he has delivered privately to his friends is true, "That the meaſure came from another "and a higher quarter." But ſtill he is the Tool, and ceaſing to be criminal ſinks into contempt. In his new department I am ſorry to ſay he has ſhewn neither abilities nor good ſenſe. His letters to the colonies contain nothing but expreſſions equally looſe and violent. The minds of the Americans are not to be conciliated by a language, which only contradicts without attempting to perſuade. His correſpondence, upon the whole, is ſo defective both in deſign and compoſition, that it would deſerve our pity, if the conſequences to be dreaded from it did not excite our indignation. This treatment of the colonies, added to his refuſal to preſent a petition from one of them to the K—g, (a direct breach of the declaration of rights) will naturally throw them all in a flame. I proteſt, Sir, I am aſtoniſhed at the infatuation which ſeems to have directed his whole conduct. The other Miniſters were proceeding in their uſual courſe, without foreſeeing or regarding conſequences: But this Nobleman ſeems to have marked them out, by a determined choice, to precipitate our deſtruction.

The Earl of Shel——ne had initiated himſelf in buſineſs, by carrying meſſages between the Earl of Bute and Mr. Fox, and was for ſome time a favourite with both. Before he was an Enſign he thought himſelf fit to be a General, and to be a leading Miniſter before he ever ſaw a public office. ——The life of this young man is a Satire on mankind. The Treachery, which deſerts a friend, might be a virtue, compared to the fawning baſeneſs which attaches itſelf to a declared enemy. Lord Chatham became his idol, introduced him into the moſt difficult department of the ſtate, and left him there to ſhift for himſelf. It was a maſter-piece of revenge. Unconnected, unſupported, he remains in office without intereſt or dignity, as if the income were an equivalent for all loſs of reputation. Without ſpirit or judgment to take an advantageous moment of retiring, he ſubmits to be inſulted, as long as he is paid for it. But even this abject conduct will avail him nothing. Like his great archetype, the vapour on which he roſe deſerts him, and now,

"Fluttering his pennons vain, plump down he drops."

I cannot obſerve without reluctance, that the only man of real abilities in the preſent adminiſtration is not an object either of reſpect or eſteem. The character of the Lord Ch——r is a ſtrong proof that an able, conſiſtent, judicious conduct, depends upon other qualities than thoſe of the head. Paſſions and party, in his Lordſhip's underſtanding, had united all their extremes: They gave him to the world in one moment the patron of natural liberty, independant of civil conſtitutions; in the next the aſſertor of prerogative independant of law. How he will adviſe the cr—n in the preſent criſis, is of more importance to the public than to himſelf. His patronages of Mr. Wilkes and of America have ſucceeded to his wiſh. They have given him a Peerage, a penſion, and the ſeals, and as for his future opinions, he can adopt none for which he may not find a precedent and juſtification in his former conduct.

Of the Earl of Ch—m—I had much to ſay; but it were inhuman to perſecute, when providence has marked out the example to mankind!

My Lord Gr——y is certainly a brave man and a generous man, and both without deſign or reflection. How far the army is improved under his direction, is another queſtion. His German friends will all have regiments; and it is enough to ſay of his Lordſhip, that he has too much good-humour to contradict the reigning miniſter.

The length of this letter will not permit me to do particular juſtice to the Duke of B—d—d's friends: Neither is it neceſſary. With one united view, they have but one character. My Lord G—w—r and Lord W—y——h were diſtreſſed, and R—by was inſatiable: The ſchool they were bred in taught them how to abandon their friends, without deſerting their principles. There is a littleneſs even in their ambition; for money is their firſt object. Their profeſſed opinions upon ſame great points are ſo different from thoſe of the party with which they are now united, that the council chamber is become a ſcene of open hoſtilities. While the fate of Great-Britain is at ſtake, theſe worthy councellors diſpute without decency, adviſe without ſincerity, reſolve without deciſion, and leave the meaſure to be executed by the man who voted againſt it. This, I conceive, is the laſt diſorder of the ſtate. The conſultation meets but to diſagree. Oppoſite medicines are preſcribed, and the laſt fixed on is changed by the hand that gives it.

Such is the council, by which the beſt of S——ns is adviſed, and the greateſt nation upon earth governed. Separately the figures are only offenſive; in a group they are formidable. Commerce languiſhes. Manufactures are oppreſſed, and public credit already feels her approaching diſſolution. Yet, under the direction of this council, we are to prepare for a dreadful conteſt with the colonies, and a war with the whole houſe of Bourbon. I am not ſurprized that the generality of men ſhould endeavour to ſhut their eyes to this melancholy proſpect. Yet I am filled with grief and indignation, when I behold a wiſe and gallant people loſt in a ſtupidity, which does not feel becauſe it will not look forward. The voice of one man will hardly be heard, when the voice of truth and reaſon is neglected; but, as far as mine extends, the authors of our ruin ſhall be marked out to the public. I will not tamely ſubmit to be ſacrificed, nor ſhall this country periſh without warning.

Mr. CROUCH,

AS the General Election for Assembly Men is soon to come on, I will take the Liberty to propose to the Electors throughout the Province, an Alteration in their Conduct on that very interesting Occasion, which will have a very sensible, and it may be, beneficial Influence at the present critical Juncture of Affairs; and as it is pertinent and apposite to my Design, I will by Way of Authority and Illustration, introduce what I have to say, under the Sanction of a famous Speech, strongly impressed on my Mind, which I have either heard, read or dreamt of, made in a certain Political Club.

——"The next that stood up was Lawyer Scout, and he spoke to the following Effect,—"Sir, The Business now "under our Consideration, is the choosing a proper Person "to preside in this Club, and I move that Mr. Peter Pounce "may take the Chair; it is true Mr. Friendless was our late "Chairman, and he behaved well, no Man has any Thing "to object to him, his Character is well established, and if "we were to follow Precedents, he certainly should have "the Preference; but, Sir, it is Time to depart from such "Precedents, this Club have few Opportunities of distin-"guishing its Members, and it is very just and reasonable, "that our Favours should not be confined to one Man, but "that every Member should have a Chance of succeeding "to that honourable Station by Rotation, and therefore, Sir, "I hope my Motion will have the Approbation of the Club, "and that Mr. Peter Pounce may be our Chairman." My Proposal is that the several Parishes in the Province should adopt the Lawyer's sound Reasoning and Principles, for do they not hold equally good and strong in the one Case, as well as the other; and if I remember right his Arguments were so very forceable and convincing, that the Club, consisting of a considerable Number of very respectable and experienced Members, approved the Scheme: Heretofore, in every new Election, a great Proportion of old Members were constantly brought into the House, some from Fifteen to Twenty Years standing; is it not full Time for these Gentlemen to make Way and give Room to others, who may be as willing as themselves to serve their Country, or must they continually Ingross the Favour and Confidence of the Electors, in the only Case wherein they have so public an Opportunity to testify their equal and impartial Regard to their Friends? Those who were of this Club must necessarily, if they would act consistently, support this Measure with all their Interest and Weight, because the Principle being good and well founded, the Obligation to observe and inforce it, must subsist in every similar Case:—Perhaps a few formal precise People may still hold odd Notions, that it is ungenerous, if not dishonourable, to discard or abandon old trusty Servants, who have faithfully and conscientiously done their Duty, and that to Affront them unnecessarily in so public and undeserved a Manner, is neither agreeable to Humanity or good Breeding; but these Niceties and Scruples are more suitable to the old fashioned antiquated Times, in which our Fore-fathers lived, than the refined enlightened Taste of the present Generation, and if we have but a Majority for the Thing; we will Laugh at such chimerical Stuff. I hope to see in the next House 50 new Members of our young Friends and boon Companions, who will afford us many Opportunities of Sacrificing to Bacchus, and I doubt not will soon evince the Propriety of the Measure, and do Honour to the Penetration and Sagacity of Lawyer Scout.

I am, Your humble Servant,
BOBBEDEL.

A NEW EDITION of the WORKS of the celebrated JOHN WILKES, Esq; is now publishing in New-York, by Mr. JAMES RIVINGTON, Bookseller, in three Vols. Octavo, at the low Price of Two DOLLARS and a QUARTER the Set.—The Paper manufactured, and all the Printing performed in America.

SUBSCRIPTIONS taken in by CHARLES CROUCH, in Elliott-street.

LONDON, DECEMBER 8.

THE free importation of rice from the colonies, we are informed, will be continued for a further limited time, but whether the free importation of corn, &c. will be continued, remains a matter of doubt.

Tuesday evening about seven o'clock, the young Princess was baptised, by the Archbishop of Canterbury, in the Grand Council Chamber St. James's, by the name of Augusta Sophia, the Sponsors were, his Serene Highness Charles Lewis Frederick, the eldest Prince of Mecklenburg, and the Dutchesses of Ancaster and Northumberland, Proxies, as we are informed, for the Queen of Denmark and the Princess of Brunswick.

Tuesday night the Hon. House of Commons did not break up till near ten o'clock.

We hear the Land-Tax is to be continued three Shillings in the Pound.

It is said a certain great man, who has lately met with a considerable disappointment, is going a Volunteer to Corsica.

Mr. Bingley says in contradiction to a paragraph in yesterday's Paper, that he has entered into a recognizance for his appearance only, the first day of next term, and not to answer interrogatories.

A Letter from the Banks of Danube, November 15.

"The Officers, who saw the Ottoman troops march from Belgrade, were not a little surprized at their condition and warlike appearance. They do not behave, as heretofore, like men without any idea of order or exercise, but have the air of well disciplined and experienced soldiers.

"We this moment learn, that the Turks, joined to the Confederates of Bar, have entered Poland. The distress of that unhappy kingdom is beyond expression. The Dissidents are no longer in safety. The Confederates will avail themselves the more of the support of the Turks, as the Count Branicki, Regimentary of the Crown, is retired with his troops towards Leopol. The Russians have left a corps near Warsaw, to cover the Royal Residence, are going to form an army of all their other troops, excepting a few detachments defined to give chace to the Confederates.

"The Confederates of Bar have just published a new manifesto, wherein they declare the election of the King illegal, and have thereby put the finishing stroke to their ingratitude towards a Prince, whose virtues are not only acknowledged by all the world, but who has at the same time endeavoured to revive, by salutary institutions, those happy times when Poland, without the assistance of foreigners, knew how to give law to all those who dared to provoke her."

We are told by letters from Poland, that the wife and children of the Prince of Moldavia, and those of most of the principal men of the country, have been sent off as hostages to Constantinople.

Letters from the confines of Poland advise, that the Russians are forming an army of 60,000 men near Kiovia, to oppose the Turks, whose motions seem to threaten something on that side.

Letters from Hamburgh mention a report, that the Prince de Repnin, Ambassador from the Court of Russia to the King and Republic of Poland, is disgraced.

And letters from Leghorn advise, that the French garrison of Bastia wanting to secure their winter-quarters and communication with St. Florent, attempted on the 5th of November to seize on some posts in the neighbourhood of Bivinco, and, the better to divide the enemy's forces, made a feint of marching to Muratto; but that Paoli, after reinforcing the garrison of Muratto, had obliged the French detachment, which was marching towards Bivinco, to retire with considerable loss.

The Brussels Gazette of December 1, has the following article: "London, November 25. The Count de Chatalet Lomont, Ambassador from France, hath dispatched within these few days two couriers to Versailles. His Excellency hath had the mortification to hear that the measures of his Court, with regard to the Corsicans, have been sharpely censured in the —— of ——; and that the unanimous sentiments of the nation equally denote discontent on that subject. Nevertheless the British Court hath in no wise departed from its resolution not to intermeddle in that affair."

December 10. There has been this week a very great dispute between two great men, who have always been hitherto of one side; and it is the general opinion of the few who, really know affairs, that if it is not adjusted soon (and much pains is taken by the friends on both sides, to facilitate an accommodation) a more universal ministerial revolution will be consequent of this disagreement, than has taken place since the reign of Q. Anne.

It is reported that no less than four American Governors will be ordered home, in order that the ministry may have certain demonstrations of the real disposition of our colonists; also a certain Captain General is likewise expected to arrive, from whose honour and veracity great expectations are formed.

It is said that an amiable young nobleman, who is a Roman Catholic Peer, has intimated some inclination to conform to the religion of his native country; and that if this event takes place, he will soon be appointed ambassador to the court of Denmark, and that our present minister there will be nominated to a post in the administration.

December 13. The account of the disputes in the Senate of Genoa, concerning the treaty with France on the subject of Corsica, is confirmed; and they are carried to such a height, that one day, in full assembly, two Nobles attacked each other with such fury, that one of them was killed, and the other mortally wounded. This animosity is likely to have fatal consequences; and the people of Genoa, far from applauding the war carrying on against the Corsicans, declare publicly that they have the interest of those brave Islanders greatly at heart.

Some letters from Poland advise, that the Grand Signior has published a manifesto, declaring null and void all the acts of the Diets of Poland which have been held since the election of the reigning King.

The same letters add, that Prince Radzivil, formerly Marshal of the General Confederacy, who has been missing some time, appears now to have undergone the same fate with the Bishops of Cracovia and Cujavia, &c.

The Prussians are filing off forty thousand troops from Silesia to join the Russians against the Turks.

December 24. On Wednesday last the Right Honourable the Marquis of Lothian was elected at Holyrood House, one of the sixteen Peers for Scotland, in the Room of the late Earl of Morton.

We hear that Orders are given for the Attendance of all the Judges on the 16th of next Month, on a popular Affair.

While vigorous Measures were supposed to be pursuing with regard to America, we now learn that a very contrary Method of Proceeding is to take Place, and that Trial is to be made by Lenity and Candour of attaching them once more to the Mother Country. In particular it is rumoured, that, among other conciliating Measures, the Trade of our Colonies with the Indians is, for the future to be left to their own Discretion and Conduct, as the best Judges of what suits their Interest, and not to be, as formerly, under the Direction of a Board of Trade and Plantations this Side the Water. Advice of this Regulation has even already been sent over to New-York, where it was communicated to the General Assembly in the Speech of the Governor, and appears to have been made here pursuant to a Report of the Lords of Trade and Plantations for that Purpose.

Pacific Dispositions, it is now talked, will take Place after the Holidays, as the contending Parties begin to be heartily tired of each other's Proceedings, when, it is thought, certain Affairs will be buried in Oblivion, and a popular Gentleman will be released from his present Embarrassments.

Letters from Vienna, of the 7th Inst. say, that his Prussian Majesty has assured the Minister of the Empress, that he will not take any Part in the present Disputes upon the Continent, though he thinks it necessary to cover his Frontiers with a large Body of Troops.

Accounts from Rome assure, that the Difference between his Holiness and the Court of Modena is most amicably adjusted.

The Hon. Commodore Byron is appointed Governor of Newfoundland.

December 27. It is reported that the Empress of Russia intends to assemble her Forces with all possible Diligence; and, in order to be near the Scene of Action, to come herself in the Spring into the Neighbourhood of Poland.

A general War in Europe must, it is thought, inevitably take Place, in Consequence of some late Treaties that have been made between the Courts of France, Prussia, and Russia, in which the two former have declared their Intention of assisting the latter, in opposing the Ottoman Porte, and to use their Endeavour to gain her other Allies. The Refusal of any Court of their Demand on this Score will certainly be productive of the dreaded Effect.

It appears from late Advices from the East-Indies, that the Company are engaged in a new War on the Coast of Coromandel, which is likely to give them Trouble for a considerable Time.

December 29. We are assured, a very great Pe[ace] has lately expressed the most earnest Desire to have [the Dis]pute between Great-Britain and the Colonies im[mediately] settled, upon the most amicable and lasting Fo[oting].

It is now said that no Change is intended [in the] Solicitor General.

We hear that his Excellency the Earl [of Hertford] pointed Ambassador to the Court of Fran[ce] Tuesday next, in order to embark for that

Letters from Vienna, dated December [15], Stormont, the British Ambassador, had [a] long Conference with the Ministers of th[e] Royal Majesties, on the Subject of some [Letters] just received from his Court. It seem[s the] endeavour to extinguish the Flames of [War] and the Porte, for fear that the Confla[gration] more general, and extend too far."

They write from a Northern Kingd[om] Ambassador is received very coolly at the [Court] expected the Merchants of his Country [will] enjoy their present Commercial Advantages in the Do[minions] of the first-mentioned Power.

Mr. Serjeant Glynn is recovered from his late Indisposition.

We are informed, that a House in Great-George-street, is now fitting up for a certain popular Gentleman; and it is confidently asserted that he will reside in it next Month.

It is said a certain Gentleman, formerly of great Rank in the Army, will shortly be preferred to one of the first Posts in the Military Department.

It is propogated about, and with some Degree of Industry, that it is the Intention of a popular Gentleman, when he comes before a certain Assembly, to step forward and take his Seat.

Great Debates are expected to arise in the General Court of a great commercial Company, which is to be held on Wednesday se'nnight.

This Morning died, at his Country House at Fulham, Sir Francis Gosling, Knt. Banker, in Fleet-street, and Alderman of Farringdon Ward Without. He was chosen Alderman in 1756, on the Death of Richard Beckford, Esq; and served the Office of Sheriff with George Nelson, Esq; in the Mayorality of Sir Charles Asgill, Bart. in 1758.—In private Life he was temperate, benevolent, and amiable; in his public Capacity an active, firm, and upright Magistrate; and a strenuous Promoter of every Measure that could tend to the public Good.

We are informed that John Wilkes, Esq; is a Candidate to succeed the late Sir Francis Gosling, Knt. as Alderman of the Ward of Farringdon Without; and we are assured, that in Case the said Gentleman should be elected, he will serve the Duties of that high Office.

CHARLES-TOWN, FEBRUARY 28.

ON Wednesday the 22d Instant, James Mason, William Wooffard, and Tacitus Gaillard, were struck out of the Commission of the Peace; and at the same Time, the said Tacitus Gaillard as Colonel, and James Mason as Major, and likewise Robert Cunningham, Robert Bussard, Elisha Teigh, Jacob Fry, John Fulmore, and Jacob Fulmore as Officers of the Militia, were deprived of their respective Commissions.

Friday last Captain Christopher Brooks, of the Brig Norton, arrived here from Jamaica, who informs us, That he was bound from Dominico for this Port, but to Leeward of St. Eustatia, his People mutined, and forcibly carried his Vessel for St. Croix, off which Place he fortunately overcame them, so that they only got away with his Boat, and about 25 Johannesses; he was then obliged to make the best of his Way for Jamaica, in order to get a Boat and Hands, sufficient to proceed on his intended Voyage.

His Excellency the Governor has appointed Rowland Rugely, Esq; to be Register of Mesne Conveyances, and Mr. James Johnston, to be a Notary Public.

Brigadier Haldiman was to embark from Pensacola for East-Florida about the fifth Instant.

Sunday the Captains Lasley and Coombes arrived here from London: In the first of whom came George Milligan, Esq; and Lady, Mrs. Harvey, Wife of Mr. William Harvey, Dr. Chandler, the Rev. Mr. Farmer, for St. John's Parish, Berkley County, and some other Passengers; and in the latter came Passengers, Major Mackenzie and Ensign Braund, of the 31st Regiment, in their Way for East-Florida, Mr. Cuthbert, Mr. Herriot, &c.

We are authorised to assure the Public, that the Body of Merchants in Bristol, truly sensible of the Baseness and Injustice of the Proceedings and Sentence in the Case of the Ship A—, are determined to pursue such Measures to make a full and proper Representation of the whole of that iniquitous Affair, as will probably bring about some Regulations in the Proceedings of American Courts of Vice-Admiralty, as well as Limitations of that exorbitant Power [illegible] vested in a Sole Judge.—Events more ardently wished for by the particular Owners of that Vessel than any pecuniary Satisfaction or other Gratification to themselves.

The Ship Cygnet, James Smith, Master, of and from this Port for London, is put into Bristol in Distress, having met with a severe Gale of Wind on her Passage; and we hear, that other Vessels which sailed about the same Time [illegible] also received considerable Damage in the same [illegible] particularly the Ship America, John Rainier, Master, [illegible] obliged to throw 50 Barrels of Rice overboard.

[illegible] by Letters from London, That Rice sold as [illegible] Sterl. per 100 lb. and was likely to be lower.

[illegible] the Sloop Betsey, Robert Savage, Master, [illegible] New-Providence, in whom went Passenger Mr. [illegible], Merchant, for the Recovery of his Health.

[illegible] Mr. William Lee, Clock and Watch-maker, [illegible] Theus, Daughter of Mr. Jeremiah Theus, a [illegible] agreeable young Lady.—Mr. John Horlbeck [illegible] Elizabeth Gallman, Relict of the late Major [illegible] Mr. Archer Smith.

To be sold together, or in parcels, or leased, and may be entered on immediately,

A Body of exceeding good river swamp and savannah, and high land, sufficient for five or six settlements, and is well calculated for rice or indico, about 2000 acres of the swamp and savannah may be laid under water, with very little expence of damming, and is esteemed as good for rice as most of the lands at the southward, having a fine blue clay foundation, and has the advantage of other lands on Santee, being so situated that two months work of 40 hands will secure 1500 acres against the highest freshes; the high land is as good for corn or indico as any in the province, and has on it a dwelling-house, out-houses, a garden, and about 100 acres under good fence, and fit for plowing. There are also in the low grounds three sets of cypress indico vats, pumps, &c. and 90 acres damed in, fit for planting, and may be flowed; said land is near Neilson's ferry, 60 miles from Charles-Town, and two from said ferry landing, where boats from 50 to 70 barrels of rice burden, are passing almost every week in the year.—A reasonable time for payment will be given, but considerable abatement for ready money or short credit.

N. B. The land will be sold much cheaper than any of the same quality has been in this province for many years past. For further particulars, inquire of the printer, or Mr. JARED NEILSON, at Neilson's ferry, on Santee.

A Genteel DINING ROOM to let, furnished or unfurnished, and two other Rooms. Enquire of the Printer.

THE subscriber hereby requests his several creditors to send in their accounts immediately, for a dividend, to his assignees, Messrs. ROBERT DANIEL and THOMAS JOSE, in order that he may be enabled to judge what ballance (if any) will be still in favour of them, which he purposes to settle. All those refusing to come in for the same, may blame themselves for being ever after excluded from any payment, as his intentions of discharging all his just debts are honourable, provided he can obtain any reasonable indulgence.

THOMAS STINSON.

TO BE SOLD in AUGUSTA,

For no other reason than that the present owner's ill state of health, and his engagements in another branch of business, will not allow him to pay a proper attention to it,

A Compleat and well-found a FARM or PLANTATION as any in this province, consisting of 500 acres of exceeding good LAND; 250 acres of which is cleared, and under good fence; and fine timber of oak and hickory on the remaining 250 acres.——A compleat dwelling-house, newly glazed and painted, in which are two chambers, a dining-room, and hall, and four very good fired-rooms, and three fire-places.—A very good store 30 feet by 20; a kitchen of the same dimensions.—A smoke-meat and milk-house, all framed, and under pinned with brick, and closed with feather-edge boards.—A compleat barn 40 feet by 24, floored flush with two inch plank.—A framed poultry-house, and another house under the same roof, roomly enough to contain a waggon, cart, and chair.—A strong and well framed stable for six or eight horses.—Three new corn-houses made of four-inch plank, capable of containing 1000 bushels each.—An overseer's-house.—A very good garden contiguous to the house, of about an acre of ground, under a good clap-board pailing.—An orchard of eight acres, with about 2100 fine young peach, apple, white-mulberry, and plumb trees, from which a great quantity of peach brandy, cyder, and silk may be made.——There is a lagoon or piece of water, in which are fixed two good pumps, with a field of 50 acres on one side of it, and another of 35 acres on the other side, very convenient for making of indico.——With this farm will be sold, about 30 likely NEGROES, mostly country born, among them is a very good bricklayer, a driver, and two sawyers; seventeen of them are fit for field or boat work, and the rest fine thriving children.——A small stock of hogs, about 30 head of neat cattle, and 70 head of sheep, will also be sold with the farm.——It may be easily demonstrated that a person who really understands farming, and will be industrious, may make on this farm fifteen per cent. of his money, only by raising corn and pork, both very saleable at Savannah; the present owner would not fail of making that, could he give a proper attention to this farm.

Conditions of sale, one-third of the amount to be paid in cash, and for the remaining two-thirds, credit will be given, upon approved security, for three or four years, paying interest. Enquire of JOHN GORDON, Esq; merchant, in Charles-Town, or Mr. THOMAS NETHERCLIFT, merchant, in Savannah. Augusta, Jan. 17, 1769.
